VALUES

Values can be described in terms of its usefulness or importance. In ethics, values can be defined as "the moral principles and beliefs what one seems to be correct and desirable in life". It can again be explained as an important or noticeable feature about something.

The word value is derived from Latin 'Valere' (be strong, be well) and the French "Valoir" (be worth).